Livestock Veterinary Advisor

Munster Area

Competitive salary & benefits

Do you want to make more of your veterinary skills? Why not join us and become part of one of the largest animal healthcare companies in the world, where advanced scientific technologies and continuous innovation have helped make Intervet/Schering-Plough into a leading global supplier of veterinary products to the animal health industry.

Within this extensive and highly influential position, you will have tremendous scope to use both your technical skills and commercial judgement. Primarily, you will be using your veterinary expertise to provide specialist advice and support both inside and outside the organisation. However, you will also play a key role in many other aspects of the business.

In addition to being a highly effective communicator with plenty of energy and ideas, you'll be a fully qualified vet with at least two years experience in practice. Ideally, you will combine that with some understanding of budgetary control, project management and marketing, although this is not essential. The ability to travel is essential.

To apply, please send your CV with covering letter to:

HR Manager
Intervet/Schering-Plough Animal Health
Boghall Road
Bray
Co. Wicklow

Closing date for applications: 5th February 2010.
